2005 Monroe County Physician Inventory

Developed for the Rural Health Network of Monroe County by the Health Council of South Florida, Inc.

OVERVIEW

As part of an ongoing effort to assess the health care needs in Miami-Dade and Monroe Counties, the Health Council of South Florida, Inc. (Council) with the financial support of the Monroe County Board of County Commissioners conducted the Monroe County Community Health Initiative in March 2002. The goal of the Initiative was to outline the current health care delivery system and health care needs of residents in the Upper, Middle and Lower Keys. An aspect of the Initiative was an inventory of health resources in Monroe County, including a quantitative summary of practicing health care providers in the region. According to data gathered and analyzed by the Council, there were, at that time, 125 practicing physicians identified in Monroe County representing 50 (40%) primary care physicians and 75 (60%) specialists.

Since the year 2002, there has been increasing concern regarding decreases in the number and types of practicing physicians in Monroe County. Some contributing factors include physician migration due to the high cost of living in Monroe County, the fourth<sup>1</sup> highest in the state of Florida; difficulty in obtaining affordable housing; provider reimbursement issues; and statewide physician attrition due to medical malpractice concerns. Concurrently, Monroe County's population continues to grow at a modest pace, increasing from 78,907 in 2001 to 80,976 in 2004 (+2.6%). The local safety net, particularly mobile clinics, are increasingly utilized as medical homes by the uninsured and underinsured (estimated at 21.2% in 1999<sup>2</sup>).

At the request of the Rural Health Network of Monroe County (RHNMC), the Council launched an effort to reassess the county's inventory of practicing physicians. Utilizing the methodology from the 2002 assessment and modifying it for 2004 (please see Methodology section), an updated assessment was conducted. With the enhanced data collection efforts employed, a total of 179 practicing physicians were identified in 2004. The following report describes the number and rate per 100,000 of practicing physicians in Monroe County with comparisons to statewide and national rates. Overall, the inventory reflects 45 actively practicing primary care physicians and 138 specialists with office practices in the Florida Keys.

For purposes of this analysis, primary care physicians include general practitioners, obstetricians/gynecologists, pediatricians, family practitioners, and internists.

METHODOLOGY

Findings from the 2005 Monroe County Physician Inventory are based on a short telephone survey of physicians serving Monroe County (please see Attachment A). Readily available sources of information were utilized to identify practicing physicians, including public physician directories, business listings, professional associations, and newspaper advertisements. Moreover, all physicians included in the 2002 baseline inventory were resurveyed.

Prior to the public release of this document, a draft inventory report was prepared and circulated among community partners in Monroe County. Each was requested to assist in the community review process, including the identification of physicians not captured through the telephone-based inquiry. Additional physician contacts and overall feedback were offered for incorporation by the following fourteen agencies and providers:

- ☼☼ Baptist Health South Florida
- ☼☼ Fishermen's Hospital
- ☼☼ Florida Keys Area Health Education Center
- ☼☼ Good Health Clinic
- ☼☼ Guidance Clinic of the Middle Keys
- ☼☼ Lifeline Home Health Care
- ☼☼ Lower Florida Keys Hospital
- ☼☼ Mariners Hospital
- ☼☼ Monroe County Emergency Management
- ☼☼ Monroe County Health Department
- ☼☼ Monroe County Medical Society
- ☼☼ Rural Health Network of Monroe County
- ☼☼ Visiting Nurses Association of the Florida Keys
- ☼☼ Wesley House Family Services

In contrast to the 2002 physician inventory, the 2005 Monroe County Physician Inventory includes all identified practicing physicians regardless of whether or not a survey was completed for his/her practice. Local hospitals also helped ensure the development of an accurate inventory by providing copies of non-published hospital directories unavailable for the previous inventory conducted nearly three years ago.

DATA LIMITATIONS

Data limitations worth noting include:

- ⌘ The 2005 Monroe County Physician Inventory may not be a complete census of all physicians currently practicing in the Florida Keys. There may be other doctors associated with some private offices whose names were not identified nor disclosed during the telephone interviews.
- ⌘ All information, including insurance policies and office hours, was self-reported either by physicians or their staff, and is subject to change at any time.

FINDINGS

Monroe County's physician base includes 179 physicians with office practices in the Keys, either on a part-time or full-time basis. More than one-third of Monroe County physicians practice in the fields of Family Practice, Emergency Medicine, Anesthesiology, and Hematology. The second tier of physicians provide services in the fields of Diagnostic Radiology, Internal Medicine (No Specialty), Obstetrics/Gynecology, Cardiology, and Neurology (please see below and Attachment B).

Monroe County Physicians		Leading Physician Types	# of Physicians

Conversely, some specialist fields are represented by only one physician countywide, indicative of a potential shortage or lack of access to physicians in these areas:

- ☼ Allergy and Immunology
- ☼ Gastroenterology
- ☼ Infectious Diseases
- ☼ Nephrology
- ☼ Oncology

Monroe County is home to 199 physician offices which offer an assortment of services in 32 diverse fields of medicine. Three quarters or 153 physician offices are located in the Lower and Upper Keys. Family Practice offices are prominent throughout Monroe County's three Regions with the Upper Keys reflecting the greatest number of offices countywide. The Upper Keys offers the vast majority of anesthesiologist offices and 12 of the 13 hematologist offices in Monroe County. Forty-six physician offices are available in the Middle Keys with a high concentration of services in Emergency Medicine, Diagnostic Radiology and Family Practice.

EVENING HOURS AND ACCEPTED FORMS OF INSURANCE

Physician offices countywide were surveyed regarding evening hour availability and types of insurance accepted. Of the 199 physician offices captured in the assessment, the following key findings were found:

Evening Hour Availability

- ✪✪ Less than ten percent of physician offices countywide offer evening hours (after 5 p.m.).
- ✪✪ Primary care physicians are two times more likely than specialists to offer evening hours.
- ✪✪ Across all physician types, primary care physicians in the Upper Keys are the most accessible after hours.
- ✪✪ Primary care physician offices in the Lower Keys are currently not open after 5 p.m.

Accepted Types of Insurance

- ✪✪ Medicare and Private insurance are the leading payer sources accepted by Monroe County physician offices.
- ✪✪ Specialist offices are 1.4 times more likely to accept Medicaid than primary care physician offices.
- ✪✪ Across both primary care and specialist offices, the percentage of physician offices accepting KidCare hovers around 40 percent.
- ✪✪ The Lower Keys reflects the highest saturation of physician offices accepting KidCare (6 in 10 physician offices). Meanwhile, KidCare is accepted by fewer than 2 in 10 specialist offices in the Upper Keys.
- ✪✪ Fewer than 2 in 10 physician offices reported accepting MediPass/PSN (Provider Service Network), making it the least accepted payer source.

Please see Attachment C for additional information on Regional figures.

STATE AND NATIONAL COMPARISONS

Physicians

Currently, Monroe County has 221 physicians per 100,000 resident population. When doctors of osteopathic medicine are excluded for comparison purposes to State rankings, Monroe County has 201 physicians per 100,000 resident population, 36 fewer physicians per 100,000 than the State of Florida in 2002, and 55 fewer in comparison to the United States. As a State, Monroe County would have ranked 40th with South Dakota (please see Attachment D).

Physician Offices

In terms of physician offices serving Monroe County residents, the number of physician offices per 100,000 were as follows:

In comparison to the 246 physician offices per 100,000 available countywide, the Lower Keys at 176 physician offices per 100,000 fell far behind. The Middle Keys at 391 physician offices per 100,000 reported rates 2.2 times higher than the Lower Keys and 1.6 times higher than the county as a whole.

PRIMARY CARE PHYSICIANS & HEALTH PROFESSIONAL SHORTAGE AREAS

The Federal government designates areas with a shortage of practitioners as Health Professional Shortage Areas or HPSAs. Such designation qualifies these areas for federal grant dollars, National Health Service Corps placement of practitioners, and some enhancement of federal insurance reimbursements in order to bolster health care services in those localities. The Department of Health and Human Services utilizes a ratio of one primary care physician per 3,500 population or more (1:3,500) as the standard for a primary care HPSA designation. The Department's recommended ratio for an "adequately served" population is one primary care physician per 2,000 people.<sup>3</sup>

The following table shows the number of primary care physicians serving Monroe County in total, and the number of primary care physicians offices<sup>4</sup> in each of the three Florida Keys Regions in comparison to the number recommended to "adequately serve" the population and the number required for Federal government designation as a HPSA. By this standard, Monroe County, overall, appears to be somewhat underserved by the number of primary care physicians/offices practicing there since at the regional level, the Lower Keys is slightly below the recommended ratio.

	Actual	Recommended Ratio for an "Adequately Served" Population
		Required for HPSA Designation
Upper Keys Primary Care Physician Offices	18	11	6
Middle Keys Primary Care Physician Offices	7	6	3
Lower Keys Primary Care Physician Offices	22	23	13
Monroe County Primary Care Physicians	45	40	23

<sup>3</sup> Source: Selected Statistics on Health Professional Shortage Areas as of September 30, 1996. Division of Shortage Designation, Bureau of Primary Health Care, Health Resources and Services Administration, US Department of Health and Human Service, Table 2.

<sup>4</sup> It should be noted that only two primary care physicians maintain more than one office across the Regions.

SUMMARY

The 2005 Monroe County Physician Inventory offers substantial insight into the number, profile and geographic distribution of physicians practicing throughout the Florida Keys. Overall, Monroe County appears to not be adequately served by the number of primary care physicians practicing there and the number of physician offices available, particularly in the Lower Keys which has fewer than the recommended ratio of primary care physician offices and lacks evening hour availability by primary care physicians located in that region. Access to specialty care remains a challenge, particularly for the care and treatment of conditions related to heart disease, cancer, blood disorders, allergies and infectious diseases. Local endeavors to increase access to specialty care may be furthered by building upon the current base of practicing physicians in Monroe County. Engaging their participation in the health plans under consideration by the Monroe County Health Insurance Task Force (now known as the Keys Choice Health Plan, Inc.) could play a pivotal role in increasing access to care for the uninsured and insured populations countywide.

Due to the low percentage of physician offices offering evening hours (after 5:00 p.m.), particularly among primary care physicians in the Lower Keys and specialists in the Upper and Middle Keys, fewer working Monroe County residents may be able to access health care services in a timely and efficient manner. Increasing the proportion of physician offices available to see patients after-hours continues to be a viable option for expanding existing resources. Increased acceptance of KidCare among specialist physicians should also be addressed to help boost access to specialty services among children. KidCare and Medicare are already widely accepted in the Lower Keys. Greater acceptance of Medicaid as a form of payment among primary care physicians and specialists across all geographic regions, except in the Lower Keys area where the percentage of specialists accepting Medicaid is 1.4 to 1.9 times higher, should be pursued to capitalize on existing public assistance programs. Lastly, given the limited number and geographic distribution of providers for the care and treatment of cardiovascular and other chronic conditions, the coordination of special arrangements with regional providers can contribute to the promotion of health care access to Florida Keys residents and help further regional efforts to retain practicing medical school graduates in South Florida.
